Temperature

Radio data logger for remote monitoring of temperature.

Temperature and humidity

Data loggers for external probes: Temperature or relative humidity in harsh environments.

Universal

Data loggers with interface to optional sensors for industrial applications.

Trackers

Shock data loggers for monitoring transport conditions.

Accessories

For improving wireless range, alarm relays, display units etc.

1. The data loggers are situated in the area being monitored. They send their measurements by radio waves to the RF to USB key. They can be configured or updated wirelessly by radio.
2. The receivers establish the connection between the PC and the data loggers.
3. RFM is the software that is installed on the PC. Use it to configure the devices however you want them, monitor their data and download it to the PC.
